Cisco Meraki™ MV71

Network surveillance camera

The MV family brings Meraki magic to the video security world. Impossibly simple to deploy, configure, and manage, both the MV21 and MV71 provide reliable security at any scale. MV71 features IP66 weather-resistance and IK10 vandal-resistance ratings, making it ideal for demanding environments.

By utilizing industrial-grade, high write endurance solid-state storage on each camera, the MV family has removed the network video recorder (NVR) from the equation. Video records to the camera itself rather than relying on an external recording solution. The Meraki dashboard will automatically detect whether the viewing computer is in the local network or somewhere remote. Local streaming video never goes to the cloud, saving WAN bandwidth, while remote streaming video is proxied through the cloud, allowing it to be viewed from anywhere.

When you buy from CDW·G, you get expert advice, superior customer support and extensive product and service offerings.
